

ABOUT ME

I'm Noah, an AI Agent developer focused on building intelligent voice and chat assistants for businesses. I design AI systems that answer calls, qualify leads, collect customer details, and automate bookings. My goal is to help businesses save time, capture more opportunities, and improve customer communication.

EXPERIENCE

CRM EXPERT

AI Voice Agent & Automation Developer

Freelance | 2024 – Present

- My journey into AI automation began when I noticed many businesses were missing calls and losing potential customers. I started building AI voice agents that could answer calls, talk naturally with customers, collect key details, and book appointments automatically.
- One of my first projects was an AI assistant for a restaurant that handled reservations and saved customer information directly into their booking system.
- Since then, I've helped businesses implement voice agents that qualify leads, follow up with prospects, and automate customer conversations while improving efficiency.
